Brockington Bulletin December 2019 Edition

Sadie Batstone
Principal

At the end of a very full and exciting term, I'd like to wish all our parents and carers a very happy Christmas and a restful new year.

The autumn term has been a busy one; I'd like to pay tribute to all the staff at Brockington who have worked tirelessly this term and often given time and effort beyond what's expected of them, for the benefit of our students. This edition of the bulletin gives just a small insight into so many activities that students have taken part in this term.

I have also been very pleased with students across all year groups who have, in the vast majority of cases, worked exceptionally hard, behaved well and been involved in a variety of different activities. This is what we ask of students and we know that the return on this is a bright and successful future. Across all year groups, there has been a substantial increase in the number of reward points given to students in recognition of their efforts in lessons and for playing an important part in the wider life of the college. It's always a pleasure, and a proud moment, for me to write R3s to parents/carers informing you of the exceptional way our students contribute to the life of the college.

As I write, Year 11 students have received their mock examination results, and for most students this has provided them with a positive picture as they head, in the new year, into their final full term at Brockington. For those who have done well - well done! Keep up the good work. For those who may not have done as well as they wanted to, then learning from the experience and continuing revision from January will make a substantial difference to GCSE grades of potentially 2+ grades (e.g. grade 4 to grade 6). The Year 11 students demonstrated that they prepared well and have undertaken a professional approach to the mock exams. Over the Christmas break it is essential that they relax and recover; students will need to be fresh for January, ready for the next phase ahead of the March mock examinations.

As always, we have some goodbyes to say to some wonderful members of staff. To Mrs McKenzie, and Miss Howard who will be leaving us to take up senior leadership positions, and to Mr Ogleby and Mrs Morjaria who will be heading to pastures new. I know that staff and students will greatly miss these members of staff who have worked tirelessly for the benefit of all at Brockington and I know they will go on to be successful in their new ventures. Equally, we say a temporary goodbye to Mrs Cooper who will be starting maternity leave; we look forward to hearing the good news of baby's arrival.

Again, I'd like to wish you a happy Christmas and would remind parents/carers that we return to college on Tuesday 7 January 2020.

End of term arrangements

School will close for the Christmas holidays at 12.40pm on Friday 20 December 2019. The school buses will arrive for this time and will depart at approximately 12.50pm. Due to the earlier finish, only cold 'grab and go' lunches will be available on this day. Students who would like a 'grab and go' lunch, including those who receive free school meals, must order their food at break the day before, and collect their lunch from the baguette bar on the last day, as they depart at 12.40pm.

We appreciate that the early finish may create childcare issues for some parents/carers. Therefore, there will be the facility for any child to stay in school and be supervised until 3pm, although there will be no school buses at this time. Please contact the school office if you would like to make use of this facility by Monday 16 December 2019. For any students staying at school until 3pm, we would ask that they report to the library immediately after classes are dismissed and that they order a cold 'grab and go' lunch or bring a packed lunch with them.

There will be reduced administrative support over the holidays, so if you need to contact the school, please do so via admin@brockington.leics.sch.uk and be aware that a response will not be immediate. We look forward to seeing all students back at school on Tuesday 7 January 2020.

Cross country results

The final two league races in the secondary schools league took place on the 29 November and 8 December. The junior boys team (Year 8 and 9) won the team race. Despite some very wet and muddy underfoot conditions, the boys performed very well. Imogen was representing Brockington in the junior girls race and she finished in 20th place.

The County Schools championships will take place at Ratcliffe College on Saturday 8 February.

Brockington Christmas Show 2019

It is that time of year again, we can almost smell the mince pies in the air. The annual Brockington Christmas show on Thursday 5 December was upon us and what a treat was in store. Students played beautiful music lead by Mrs Ward and sang wonderful renditions of classic Christmas carols. There was a hauntingly beautiful version of 'Away in a manger' accompanied by Fran Penny on vocals, her voice lifting the spirits of everyone.

This year, students all took to writing their own scripts which was an amazing task in itself. They wrote wonderful pieces with a range of characters. Each script explored a different aspect of Christmas, with the true meaning of the season reflected behind each of the performances. There was a wonderful scene which highlighted the famous football match between the soldiers during the war. This was performed by two Year 7 students who created a piece of physical drama accompanied by song. There was a modern take of the classic Christmas carol, which had Scrooge replaced by a young teenage girl who was mean to all those around her. She soon learned that the importance of life is to value those we share it with.

The hall was filled with laughter as a group of students performed a very clever and witty performance based on the Christmas story. Instead of Bethlehem 2000 years ago, the performance was based in present day Leicester. It was a very clever script, written by our very own Ethan Dakin and performed by a combination of students from KS3. We had a visit from former staff member Mrs O'Hara, who found herself playing in the orchestra and getting stuck in like old times. The students were delighted to get the chance to see her again and have her support the show.

As a department we are very proud of the effort and creativity put in by all of the students and we are so thankful to the many parents/carers and friends who came to watch the show.

Until next year.... Happy Christmas to you all. Mrs Hawthorne - Performing Arts department

Feeling stressed about exams?

Do you feel you would benefit from learning some new strategies to help you deal with exam stress and anxiety?

The school counselling service is able to offer you a one-off session to help you develop tools that can help you get through the exam period.

If you are interested and think this is for you, please speak to the pastoral team or email Mrs McPherson, the school counsellor, at km@brockington.leics.sch.uk

A session will then be arranged for you.

Emergency closure of Brockington

The college will only be closed as a last resort in the event of severe weather conditions or in an emergency.

In the rare event that a decision to close is made, it will be communicated to parents/carers via the Brockington College website, Radio Leicester 104.9 FM and the school text messaging system, wherever possible.

Leicester Cathedral

We were invited to support the primary schools Christmas service, at Leicester Cathedral on Tuesday 3 December, with a drama and vocal performance. Performing a script written by Mrs Hawthorne, a small group of Year 7 and 8 students performed and three students also sang The First Noel, during a section of reflection.

All students gave very high standard performances that were enjoyed by all attending the service, including Bishop Guli who also led a talk called The Greatest Gift of All.

Rotary young chef competition

On Saturday 30 November, five of our GCSE food students wowed the Rotary Club's young chef award judges with their talents. Seren's crisp profiteroles, Georgina's gooey chocolate brownie and Emily's towering soufflé all impressed. Even with a near disaster of turning the wrong oven on, Kate claimed runner up and impressed so much she is the first second place contestant to be invited to develop her menu and cook with the Rotary's chef, Tony.

However, it was Aayush's homemade sushi, having filleted the fish himself, and spicy Thai curry that won first place due to its skill and complex flavours. We are all excited to see how his menu develops for the next round in February.

Christmas carol service

All Brockington students will attend a carol service at Enderby Parish Church on either Wednesday 18 or Thursday 19 December 2019. A variety of students from different year groups will lead the service, alongside members of Enderby Parish Church. The vocal group and orchestra will perform. Students will also lead readings and prayers.

It is a lovely way to end such a great autumn term in preparation for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs McKenzie - RS department

Visit from Leicestershire youth offending service

During the penultimate week of term, Year 11 classes have been visited by Julian Roberston, a member of staff from the youth offending service. Students have been involved in a Q&A session and discussion on the law and crime. The topics discussed form part of their paper 2 study on religion, crime and punishment.

All classes have been extremely respectful to our visitor and have learnt a vast amount about the youth offending services.

Christmas STEM lectures

Oxford University Museum of Natural History was the destination for eleven Year 9 students on Monday 9 December, as they were lucky enough to attend the famous 'Christmas STEM lectures', along with Mr Higham and Mrs Cheesman.

The first lecture on 'magnets fantastic' was presented by two very enthusiastic physicists from Oxford University and featured a large number of visual demonstrations and fun audience participation, to explain the phenomenon of magnets. The second lecture focussed on volcanic behaviour, which was very topical given the recent volcanic activity in New Zealand, and was given by volcanologist, Dr Mike Rowley. He explained the difference between 'blow' and 'flow' eruptions and the research he was doing to help predict the nature of volcanic activity across the world.

In between lectures we looked around the museum, which had a large collection of exhibits and was very informative, as well as being in a beautiful building. The day was thoroughly enjoyed by the students, and the opportunity of visiting the museum and experiencing the STEM lectures at Oxford University was a rare treat.

Brockington library news

Book fair

For the past two years, the library has run a very successful book fair. A lot of great books were bought by students and in doing so credits were earned for the school, which has enabled us to obtain free books for the library worth more than £600. I am delighted to announce that there will be another book fair in January and I am sure it will be every bit as successful (if not more) than the previous two. Please support this event by encouraging students to come and browse the books on sale and make at least one purchase. Books for all ages, reading levels and interests will be available.

Library after hours

Once again I would like to remind you that the library is open almost every day after school until 4pm. It is a quiet space where students can come to read or do homework. They can use the computers for homework/research or just to print off their work using their printing credits. On the rare occasion when the library is closed after school, this will be advertised in the morning bulletin.

Christmas

It's that time of year! The library has a number of books, both fiction and non-fiction, which have a Christmas theme and some of these are displayed on the library noticeboard (see photo). This year the library is running a competition to make and decorate a Christmas tree, using the book folding method. The closing date is Friday 13 December and they will be judged by a panel of staff in the last week of term.

I wish all Brockington families a happy Christmas and remember that books make fantastic presents: they are non-fattening, easy to wrap and last forever!

Performing Arts

There is a wide range of instrumental tuition available at Brockington College, which is provided by a variety of expert private instrumental teachers. In most cases, your child will need to have their own instrument and bring it into school for lessons (with the obvious exception of drum kit and piano.) This means students are able to receive their instrumental lessons during the school day but all communication regarding the arrangements and payments are made directly between parents/carers and the instrumental/vocal teacher.

Lesson times are on a rota, so while students have lessons on the same day each week, the lessons are at a different time to avoid missing the same lessons regularly. All details of the provision we provide at Brockington can be found below. If you have any questions regarding instrumental/vocal tuition, please feel free to talk to or email Mrs Ward, curriculum team leader, performing arts via sew@brockington.leics.sch.uk

Former Year 11 presentation evening

We managed to fit nearly 200 'class of 2019' students and their guests into the hall for our annual presentation evening, which took place on Wednesday 27 November. Mrs Smith, Head of Year 11, opened the ceremony by welcoming the students back to Brockington and noting how grown up they all looked after only a few months away. It was lovely to see so many of our leavers beaming with pride as they were presented with their GCSE certificates by Brockington College staff and governors.

Mr Chris Southall returned in his new role as trust leader, having guided the students through their five years at the college, and gave an inspiring speech encouraging all of our former students to use their talents to live life to the full as they move into adulthood.

Eleven students received trophies to recognise and celebrate their achievements whilst at Brockington College. A number of the citations, written by staff about the students they nominated, were very emotional and highlighted the strength and perseverance the students had demonstrated both at school and in their own personal lives. We send our warmest congratulations to all of our trophy winners!

The presentation evening was a huge success and it was a real privilege to be able to celebrate with so many of our former students; staff were delighted to be able to catch up with the students and their parents and hear about college courses, apprenticeships and training over delicious drinks and canapés, which were provided by our school catering team.

The following students received trophies to recognise and celebrate their achievements whilst at Brockington College.

Principal's Cup	Jenna Moore
Niamh Dickinson Cup for Outstanding Artist	Erin Christopher
John Riley Memorial Cup for Personal Achievement	Viraj Patel
Michael Balfour Cup - Sportswoman of the Year	Jessie Wright
Michael Balfour Cup - Sportsman of the Year	Tom Gibbons
Head of Year Cup	Lois Pickering
Hindson Music Shield	Philippa Mackness
Stephen Marfleet Memorial Trophy for Endeavour	Ariane Fisher
Koinonia Award	Amber Saqladi and Richard Arens
The Daniel Newton Memorial Trophy for Perseverance	Eliyana Wilkinson-Douglin
Elizabeth Durrance English Excellence Trophy	Elizabeth Burt

On behalf of everyone at Brockington College, I would like to take this opportunity to wish all of our former Year 11 students the very best for the future. Please do keep us informed of your post Brockington journeys; no matter how far you go, Brockington is a family and we love to hear what you are up to!

World Skill Live 2019

175 Year 9 students attended the UK's largest skills, apprenticeships and careers event at the NEC on Thursday 21 November 2019. World Skill Live was an opportunity for students to get up and close to employers and think about their own future careers.

Many students undertook the skills challenges that were being offered by employers such as 3D printing, electronics, hair and beauty and cooking to name a few. Students were able to speak to employers such as Coca Cola, BAE system and Jaguar Land Rover. All students were a credit to the school and were impeccably behaved.

Maths Week England

As a school, we celebrated Maths Week England from the 9 to 14 November. We used spiritual reflection time to consider the importance of mathematics and numeracy and took part in a number of competitions. One of these was the Times Table Rock Stars Maths Week England Competition.

Out of the thousands of schools that participated, Brockington came 57th in the competition, which is fantastic. Well done to all those that took part by using Times Table Rock Stars in this week.

This maths based game is available to all students at Brockington and can aid in improving competency in times tables. If your child does not currently know their login, please ask them to talk myself or their maths teacher.

If you would like to find out more about the importance of numeracy in the UK, please visit www.nationalnumeracy.org.uk

Mr Price - Associate Assistant Principal /Maths department

Urban Fieldwork in Enderby

On Tuesday 3 December 2019, Year11 students undertook urban fieldwork in Enderby to seek to answer the enquiry question "To what extent is Enderby a sustainable community?" Students behaved impeccably during the day and members of our local community commented upon their behaviour and attitude whilst busily assessing sustainability in the village centre.

To complete the primary research element of the fieldwork, students used two techniques. Firstly, the sustainability of Enderby was measured using a bipolar survey based upon the geographical model 'Egan's Wheel' which measures how sustainable a community is based upon factors such as housing, community facilities, services, local economy, transport, housing and governance. Following this primary research, students will complete secondary research using a range of sources (for example, local census data, traffic flow information, crime rates, etc) to judge if the results of their primary research correlate to a wider assessment of the sustainability of the village.

Although students have yet to draw detailed and full conclusions, many remarked that they had not realised the proliferation of personal services businesses (such as tanning, nails, hair and beauty) and café/coffee shops, at the expense of traditional high-street retail businesses. Students also drew very positive on-the-spot conclusions about the number and variety of community services and facilities within the village (such as the many sports clubs on Mill Lane, the number of churches, pre-schools, the village institute, urgent care centre, leisure centre, etc).

A request for help

In the next academic year, our fieldwork focus (set by our examination board) will change to the concept of change over time. One of the ways we can study this is to examine historical photographs of a place and compare with how the same site appears today. Such historical photographs could be from over a century ago or, perhaps even more usefully, taken within the last 40-50 years. If you have any street-scene photographs of Enderby, specifically the village centre area from the motorway behind Brockington College up to High Street and from Blaby Road across to around Shorridge Lane, copies of these would be very welcome if you would consider sharing these with our GCSE geography students. If you have any images you would be happy to share, please contact Mr Molloy (Head of Geography) at tmm@brockington.leics.sch.uk or by leaving a message at the college at 0116 2863722 if you do not have access to the internet.

Finally, one of the questions asked by students during our fieldwork regarded the obvious prominence of the local Cooperative Society in the past (the Coop store, Cooperation Cottages, the Coop Bank, Cooperation Street). If any members of our local community have any further information about this aspect of the history of the village, we would welcome contact from you in anticipation of our fieldwork next year.

Environmental committee

The Brockington environmental committee has been working hard over the course of the past term to prepare for a number of exciting developments at the college. Our committee is made up of students from all year groups who are enthusiastic about making the college, the community and our entire planet as sustainable as possible. As Brockington is a reasonably large college on a large site, we see many opportunities to improve local sustainability starting right here, in school. Our priorities for this year are:

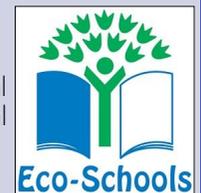

Woodland development

We have successfully applied for over 120 tree saplings from the Woodland Trust to be planted around our college site and in the primary schools that make up the Embrace Multi Academy Trust. There are a variety of species, that we plan to plant around the college site to improve the absorption of carbon dioxide and thus reduce the carbon footprint of the college. We also intend to plant in our ingallsfield woodland area, adjacent to the motorway, to increase our already substantial green buffer from vehicle emissions from this direction.

Eco-Schools status

Students are currently beginning an audit of the sustainability of the college to allow us to apply for the first in the Eco-Schools awards series. This audit will examine many areas of sustainability and environmental impact and will also develop an understanding of environmental issues. The geography department and PSCE departments have also redeveloped schemes of work so that lessons better reflect the environmental agenda.

Fairtrade status

The final major initiative this year is for the school to begin to acquire Fairtrade status. This process also involved a whole-school audit and it based around the concept of fair trade, where producers of products are guaranteed a fair income. We will begin this process with smaller, incremental changes but over the course of the next three years we intend for much more significant changes and whole-school education as a result of our commitment.

Advice for giving technology gifts this Christmas

With Black Friday and Cyber Monday over, and Christmas not far away, there are a number of things you can do before handing over any tech presents on Christmas day.

Technology can be a great and exciting gift for young people at Christmas. Games consoles, tablets, smart watches and mobile phones are often at the top of a teenager's Christmas list. The UK Safer Internet Centre have created some top tips for parents and carers, looking at what you can do before these gifts arrive under the tree on the 25 December:

Have a look at parental controls

Have a look at the device before Christmas day. Take the time to install the parental controls and safety settings that you want onto the device. This way you know how the device works and don't have to worry about finding time to install parental controls once your child already has access to the device. Be open and transparent with your child about what parental controls are in place. Finding the right balance between privacy and safety is key.

Have a go on the device yourself

The easiest way to get to know the safety settings, reporting tools and other features available on the device you've just bought is by having a play on it yourself! If you know what apps or social networks your child is most likely to install onto the device day one, have a quick look at safety guidance for that particular platform so you're familiar with it.

Make a family agreement

Making a family agreement is a great way to think about how your family uses the internet, and to help make sure that everybody understands the importance of staying safe and positive online. A family agreement is a chance for you to discuss how your family uses the internet. It can include how often you use technology, if it is allowed to be used in communal spaces, like at the kitchen table, and if permission needs to be gained before downloading any new apps.

Talk to your child about using technology safely

Ask your child the following questions: "Do you know how you block or report on the games you're playing? Can you show me how to do it?" "What will you use this device for?" and "Can you show me what your favourite thing to do online is?"

As always, if you are worried, concerned about, or would like more advice on how to keep your child safe online, please visit our dedicated E-safety page: <http://www.brockington.leics.sch.uk/e-safety/>.
